

Blacklists are Back: Freedom of Speech and the Israel Lobby

Sunday, March 18, 2-3:30 PM
Woodstock Town Hall, 76 Tinker St.

Three speakers from the Hudson Valley will share their stories of how their human rights efforts were opposed by the Israel Lobby. One is a prominent journalist who was forced into retirement for writing articles about the West Bank. Another is a political activist who tried to introduce a human rights resolution to the Dutchess County Legislature, and the third is a student from Fordham University whose organization, Students for Justice in Palestine, was thrown off campus.
